

IPE Socialist Seminar

Tips, Tasks, and Gigs in the Age of Service Work

Annie McClanahan

Today, 80 percent of U.S. workers do service work, from delivering takeout to mopping floors to teaching. Do these jobs have anything in common? Although service work has often been treated as a footnote to modern capitalism, this talk explores tip work, clerical microwork, and gig work, and examines new forms of solidarity in a low-wage economy.

Friday, September 18th

1:00 – 3:00 pm

Dunton Tower, Rm 1524 (Hybrid Option)

Carleton University

Department of English Language & and Literature

Institute of Political Economy

